GOVERNOR FINED — State Trooper Keith Kauffman, driver for New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, hands over the governor's personal check for $3 to Trenton Violations Clerk Robert Haines. Bill Seeks To Force Cities To Share Their Income Taxes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Mount Gilead Republican legislator has introduced a bill to require cities levying income taxes to share the proceeds with other subdivisions in cases where the taxpayer is a non-resident.

Rep. Dale G. Hildebrand, R-Morrow, wants a 50-50 split if the non-resident taxpayer lives in another city. If he lives in a township or unincorporated village, 30 per cent would go to the place of residence and 20 per cent to the county.

The Hildebrand bill, introduced just before legislators ended their lith work week Thursday, is another chapter in a running financial feud between income - tax cities and communities which do not have such a levy.

During the legislative week, the two houses topped the 1,000 mark on bill introductions and the end is not in sight. With 1,036 proposed laws already on hand—266 in the Senate and 770 in the House—there is no indication when the House will impose a deadline. The deadline originally was set for March 18, but then it was abandoned.

The unexpected finally happened shortly before the weekend recess—the Senate defeated a bill, the first of the session.

The bill, which would have permitted a pointment of local boards of trustees for state university branches, got 14 yes votes to 12 no, but 17 votes are required to pass a bill in the Senate—a majority of members elected to the 33-member body.

It appeared likely majority Republicans would make an effort at next week's sessions to revive the measure when full GOP attendance is on hand. Four Republicans were absent Thursday. One of the bill's sponsors, Sen. Ross Peppel, R-Allen, voted against the bill in an apparent effort to be in a parliamentary position to move for reconsideration next week.

After the bill's defeat, Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, yanked a companion measure off the floor to prevent its defeat. The second bill would give trustees of branch universities authority to present tax measures for support of the branches of the electorate.

The House wound up its week with routine measures, including approval of a $100 fee for out-of-state chiropodists to practice in Ohio.

South Koreans Protest Rule By Military

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The largest antigovernment demonstrations in South Korea's 22 months of military rule erupted today in Seoul and two southern cities.

Confronted by his most serious challenge to date, strongman Gen. Chung Hee Park declared anew he will not waiver from his plan to extend military rule for another four years.

About 600 slogan-chanting demonstrators marched the streets of Seoul, demanding that the military junta keep its earlier promise to restore civilian government in August. Police seized scores of marchers.

Park banned political activity in this tense nation March 16 and proposed a referendum on his plan to continue military rule.

In proposing an extension of military rule, Park said, "This country should not become a state solely for the tainted politicians." He pledged to "follow the will of the people expressed through a referendum."

But with political activity banned, the referendum promised to be an all-government show. The government controls the national radio and information centers in villages and has placed severe restrictions on newspapers.

Pentagon Told To Wait for TFX Decision

President Confident McNamara To Be Proven Correct

WASHINGTON (AP)—With kind words for both sides President Kennedy has stepped in between senators and defense officials battling over the TFX warplane probe.

In so many words Thursday he told the Pentagon to wait in a neutral corner for the investigation's outcome which he said would prove that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was right in awarding the big contract to General Dynamics Corp.

"I see nothing wrong with Congress looking at these matters," the President told his news conference. "My judgment is that the decision reached by Secretary McNamara was the right one, sound one, and any fair and objective hearing will bring that out."

And, he added later, "I assume that the McClellan committee, on which I once served, will render a fair judgment."

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., hailed Kennedy's words as fair and "nice."

The subcommittee is investigating whether influence was a factor in the Pentagon's award of the contract for the TFX—experimental tactical fighter—to General Dynamics of Fort Worth, Tex., over a lower rival bid by the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash.

The $24-million contract covers the start of work on the plane, an all-purpose fighter-bomber to be used by both Air Force and Navy. Eventually 1,700 of the planes will be built at an estimated cost of $5.5 billion.

School Bond Issue Tally Is Reported

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—School bond issues totaling $173,249,620 were approved by Ohio voters in 1962—65.5 per cent of the proposals offered for balloting.

Ohio State University in a report issued today said there were 768 issues totaling $223,182,720 on the ballot at various elections during the year in 142 school districts.

In addition, 496 districts submitted 648 special school levies to the voters. Of these, 547, or 84.4 per cent were approved.

The percentage of bond issues passed during 1962 increased in all three types of Ohio school districts.

City districts submitted 37 bond issues and had 25 valued at $116,998,000 approved, for a percentage of 68, as compared with 64 per cent passed in 1961.

Exempted village districts placed 17 bond issues on the ballot of which 16, valued at $11,230,000, were approved. The percentage passed was 94 in 1962 and 52 per cent the previous year.

Local school districts proposed 114 bond issues, and voters favored 69 for a value of $45,301,000 and a percentage of 61, compared with 53 per cent approved in 1961.

Toughened Driver Laws Are Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A bill will be introduced in the Ohio House Monday night to extend the stricter provisions of the junior probationary driver license law to persons 19 and 20 years old.

The sponsors are Reps. Sam Landes, R-Madison, and Luther J. Mitchell, R-Marion. They say statistics show violations of traffic laws soar after youngsters get their regular licenses at 18.

The bill would make 19 and 20-year-old drivers subject to automatic revocation of their licenses after three moving traffic violations, the same as persons driving under the junior license law.

Sow Farrowings Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sow farrowings increased in Ohio and four other Farm Belt states in the December-February pig crop, according to the Department of Agriculture. The number of sows farrowing, 1,842,000, compares with the 1,834,000 a year earlier.

JFK Hopes Soviet Troop Withdrawal Of 3,000 from Cuba Is Only Starter

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says the Soviets have withdrawn some 3,000 troops from Cuba in recent weeks—and he hopes this is only a starter.

Kennedy told his news conference Thursday that "we are waiting to see whether more will be withdrawn, as we would hope." But he said the scope of the withdrawal would not be fairly evident until the end of March.

When the Soviet Union promised last month to withdraw several thousand troops from Cuba by mid-March, the U.S. government estimated Soviet military and technical personnel in Cuba totaled about 17,000.

Kennedy opened the conference by reading a four-minute statement on his three days of talks this week at San Jose, Costa Rica, with the presidents of Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua. Said the President, who flew back to Washington late Wednesday:

"I return from San Jose with increased confidence that we will continue to live in a hemisphere of independent, firm and faithful friends."

Noting that this was his third trip south of the border, Kennedy said that each one makes it clear that Latin Americans "by an overwhelming majority, are ready to work to sacrifice, to fight if necessary, to maintain their own freedom, and to build societies which serve the welfare of all their people."

In the domestic area, two topics were paramount.

Kennedy said, "We don't believe that there will be a recession this year," that economic indicators seem more encouraging. But, he said, later, if the economy falters and Congress wants to speed up his plan for a three-year tax cut of $10.2 billion, "I would accept that."

Under present conditions, he argued, the administration proposes a proper balance between lower taxes and higher spending on "what we regard as essential programs."

The President gave unqualified support to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's handling of the controversial TF fighter plane contract, awarded to the General Dynamics Corp. despite the lower bid of Boeing Co. The more the Senate Investigations subcommittee explores the contract at hearings, Kennedy said, "the more convinced people are, finally that Secretary McNamara is a very effective secretary of defense and that we are lucky to have him."

Kennedy said McNamara "is willing to make hard decisions" and doesn't mind "that a good many people don't like it." The President said McNamara rejected an appeal by Kennedy's own brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., concerning a contract award.

Also in the domestic field, the President said there is nothing to reports that Postmaster General J. Edward Day will resign before 1964 election.

The President's hopes for a nuclear test ban agreement with the Soviet Union "are somewhat dimmed" but he said the United States will continue working toward that end "because personally I am haunted by the feeling that by 1970, unless we are successful, there may be 10 nuclear powers instead of four, and by 1975, 15 or 20."

Church Merger Talks Progress

Consolidation Problems Next on Study List

OVERLIN, Ohio (AP) — After three days of free-wheeling discussion, churchmen considering merger of six major Protestant denominations say they are ready to tackle the major problems of consolidation.

The Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, architect of the merger proposal that would unit 22 million Protestants, said the meeting concluded at Oberlin College Thursday was a success.

He observed that the extent of agreement among those attending amounted to "certainly more than I would have cared to predict before the meeting."

"I am encouraged because we got such a consensus," he said.

However, he continued, "because of the amount of consensus, no one should suppose this solves all our problems." Blake, chief executive officer of the United Presbyterian Church, and others close to the merger studies steadfastly refused to lay down any timetable for completion of the consolidation.

Involved are the United Presbyterian Church, Methodist Church, the Protestant Episcopal Church, the United Church of Christ, Disciples of Christ and the Evangelical United Brethren.

A forthright statement by the executive committee of the gathering, known as the Consultation on Church Union, listed three areas of potential disagreement: The place and authority of the ordained ministry; the tradition of church creeds, liturgical practices and confessions of faith, and the doctrines of the sacraments.

Judge Election Setup Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's present method of selecting judges and their tenure, will be the chief topic at the opening here tonight of a two-day conference on the subject sponsored by the Ohio State Bar Association.

James F. Bell of London, former Ohio Supreme Court judge will be the principal speaker at a banquet, first big event of the program which extends through Saturday.

Judge Bell will address the conference on the present methods of selecting Ohio judges.

Ohio is among those states which have elective systems involving the use of non-partisan ballots, or ballots without a party label, in the general election. Primaries, however, are run on a party basis. The judges are required to campaign for election rather than being selected by other means.

Zoning Would Come Later

Advisory Group Told of Need For Planning Commissions

The looming need for active and progressive planning commissions was outlined for the Pickaway County Advisory Committee on planning and zoning last night by Dr. John Mitchell, Extension specialist in rural sociology at Ohio State University.

A planning commission, Dr. Mitchell claimed, constitutes a legal body that enables city and county people to join in setting down plans for the future. He said it offers a realistic approach in tackling growth problems.

The speaker explained that Ohio experienced a vast population growth from 1950 to 1960, and that the increase has not been evenly distributed over the state. He said proper planning is designed to meet this change in order out of what could be chaos.

Experience has shown that this population growth is heavily concentrated in metropolitan fringe districts. Dr. Mitchell said Pickaway County, now above the state average for population increase, could be termed one of these areas due to its nearness to Columbus.

THE RURAL sociologist noted that worthwhile planning programs should be guided by citizens with broad perspectives — people who are able to avoid town and country conflicts and the atmosphere of hard feeling.

Approximately 12 members of the County Advisory Committee and guests met at the local Common Pleas Courtroom to hear Dr. Mitchell detail some of the crucial factors in promoting a planning program.

The sociologist stressed the importance of first establishing an active planning commission with the primary purpose of setting up a planning program. He said steps leading to zoning should then follow.

Dr. Mitchell outlined four steps in getting the planning job done. He listed them as: 1. Do it yourself; 2. Hire a planning staff; 3. Establish a planning staff, plus a consultant; 4. Hire a professional planning firm.

In most cases, he said, it is important to have professional assistance. This is especially true if a local program hopes to be approved for federal financial assistance.

Various methods are available to help planning commissions enforce their recommendations, the speaker said. They included subdivision regulations, building codes and the eventual installation of zoning regulations.

DR. MITCHELL placed special emphasis on explaining that rural zoning requires a majority vote in each township. Again it was noted that this phase should be expedited only after a suitable planning program is under way.

The merits of a regional planning commission also were pointed out. The speaker voiced the opinion that a regional body provides numerous advantages over county or singular municipal programs.

Circleville and Pickaway County already have launched initial steps in formulating a regional commission. A committee was named in February to draft formal articles of agreement to establish the combined city - county body.

Russell Palm, a member of the formulating committee, announced that articles of agreement have been set down. He said copies will be distributed to all members of the Advisory Committee for study and action. Indications are a move for adoption will come at the group's next meeting.

Wayne Brown, Advisory Committee chairman, said the next session tentatively has been set for April 4. He said members will be notified in case a change of date is required.

James Dimger, a Lockbourne airman, and his family were left homeless today as a result of a fire causing extensive damage to their Ashville residence.

Dimger, who has four sons ranging from 4-years-old down, told Pickaway County Sheriff Walton W. Spangler the fire started in a wastepaper basket in the kitchen.

His oldest son was thought to have been playing with matches. The Ashville Volunteer Fire Department doused the blaze but it did not before the kitchen and its contents had been heavily damaged.

Extensive smoke damage resulted to contents in other rooms. The residence, owned by Ralph Cloud, was insured.

Man's Hobby Nets Batch of Trouble

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jacob H. Fischer, 43, of Ganges, Ohio, faces a possible two-year prison sentence and a $5,000 fine because of his hobby.

Fischer was arraigned in U.S. District Court Thursday on a charge of possessing two sub-machine guns in violation of the National Firearms Act.

The gun collector was arrested Tuesday after he sold one of the weapons for $150, authorities said. Fischer, a stationary engineer with Westinghouse Electric Corp., Mansfield, allegedly purchased the gun from a California company and fixed it so it would fire, authorities added.

75,000 Left Homeless by Lava Deluge

Another 200,000 Seen Deprived of Jobs as Riceland Is Blanketed

DENPASAR, Bali (AP) — The deluge of lava from sacred Agung volcano was reported to have stopped today after five days of eruption. The governor of Bali said at least 1,100 islanders have perished.

"We have 75,000 homeless people to feed at this point, and we need help from everybody," said Gov. Anak Agung Sudetja.

He said another 200,000 may have lost their livelihood. Thousands of acres of once-fertile riceland lay beneath tons of lava and ash that have blanketed Bali's northeast coast.

An estimated 100,000 Balinese were fleeing the stricken area. Riding and afoot, they carried what possessions they could as they tried to get away from the 10,308-foot volcano which erupted briefly in February after years of virtual quiet, then went into violent action Sunday.

Reports from the disaster area said a heavy column of smoke still billowed from the crater.

A civil defense spokesman in Jakarta said earlier that more violent eruptions were feared, and authorities were trying to clear about 250,000 persons from a radius of 20 miles around the volcano.

A mushroom-shaped cloud of smoke could be seen from aircraft flying into Denpasar, but no ash was visible in this capital, about 70 miles southwest of Gunung (Mount) Agung.

Many foreign tourists were on the island, but all were believed safe. Most of them are staying in Denpasar.

Agung awoke with a roar last month. Its first eruption killed 17 people.

Last Sunday it came back with a second explosion, pushing lava down its slopes and burying hundreds of people under a deadly umbrella of searing ash. The governor said most people were killed by the ash cloud. He said the temperature of the ash was 230 degrees.

People who survived the holocaust at 7 a.m. Sunday said it became as dark as night for two minutes, and the ash choked almost everything.

The governor said hundreds were roasted alive in three villages just south of the mountain as they knelt in prayer.

Travelers returning from the area in Bali's northeast reported survivors said many priests and their disciples refused to leave their villages despite the danger.

The governor said many people died in this way in the villages of Sebudi, Sorgah and Sebih. The deeply religious Balinese—whose life centers on devotion to a mixture of Hinduism and Buddhism—believe that Gunung Agung is the seat of the gods. To many of them the eruption was a signal the deities were angry.

Denpasar Hospital treated eight patients, all first to third degree burns, mostly on their feet—a result of walking through blazing ash.

There was little indication here in the island capital of the disaster in the northeastern corner of this tropical paradise, famed as a tourist mecca. Heavy rain—blamed by some people here on

Ohio is among those states which have elective systems involving the use of non-partisan ballots, or ballots without a party label, in the general election.

Primaries, however, are run on a party basis. The judges are required to campaign for election rather than being selected by other means.

Zoning Would Come Later

Advisory Group Told of Need For Planning Commissions

The looming need for active and progressive planning commissions was outlined for the Pickaway County Advisory Committee on planning and zoning last night by Dr. John Mitchell, Extension specialist in rural sociology at Ohio State University.

A planning commission, Dr. Mitchell claimed, constitutes a legal body that enables city and county people to join in setting down plans for the future. He said it offers a realistic approach in tackling growth problems.

The speaker explained that Ohio experienced a vast population growth from 1950 to 1960, and that the increase has not been evenly distributed over the state. He said proper planning is designed to meet this change to bring order out of what could be chaos.

Experience has shown that this population growth is heavily concentrated in metropolitan fringe districts. Dr. Mitchell said Pickaway County, now above the state average for population increase, could be termed one of these areas due to its nearness to Columbus.

THE RURAL sociologist noted that worthwhile planning programs should be guided by citizens with broad perspectives — people who are able to avoid town and country conflicts and the atmosphere of hard feeling.

Approximately 12 members of the County Advisory Committee and guests met at the local Common Pleas Courtroom to hear Dr. Mitchell detail some of the crucial factors in promoting a planning program.

The sociologist stressed the importance of first establishing an active planning commission with the primary purpose of setting up a planning program. He said steps

leading to zoning should then follow.

Dr. Mitchell outlined four steps in getting the planning job done. He listed them as: 1. Do it yourself; 2. Hire a planning staff; 3. Establish a planning staff, plus a consultant; 4. Hire a professional planning firm.

In most cases, he said, it is important to have professional assistance. This is especially true if a local program hopes to be approved for federal financial assistance.

Various methods are available to help planning commissions enforce their recommendations, the speaker said. They included subdivision regulations, building codes and the eventual installation of zoning regulations.

DR. MITCHELL placed special emphasis on explaining that rural zoning requires a majority vote in each township. Again it was noted that this phase should be expedited only after a suitable planning program is under way.

The merits of a regional planning commission also were pointed out. The speaker voiced the opinion that a regional body provides numerous advantages over county or singular municipal programs.

Circleville and Pickaway County already have launched initial steps in formulating a regional commission. A committee was named in February to draft formal articles of agreement to establish the combined city-county body.

Russell Palm, a member of the formulating committee, announced that articles of agreement have been set down. He said copies will be distributed to all members of the Advisory Committee for study and action. Indications are a move for adoption will come at the group's next meeting.

Wayne Brown, Advisory Committee chairman, said the next session tentatively has been set for April 4. He said members will be notified in case a change of date is required.

James Dimger, a Lockbourne airman, and his family were left homeless today as a result of a fire causing extensive damage to their Ashville residence.

Dimger, who has four sons ranging from 4-years-old down, told Pickaway County Sheriff Walton W. Spangler the fire started in a wastepaper basket in the kitchen.

His oldest son was thought to have been playing with matches. The Ashville Volunteer Fire Department doused the blaze but not before the kitchen and its contents had been heavily damaged.

Extensive smoke damage resulted to contents in other rooms. The residence, owned by Ralph Cloud, was insured.

AUTHORITIES reported that Mrs. Dimger and the children will return to Michigan to live with her parents.

The Pickaway County Chapter of the Red Cross has launched a program to provide assistance for the family.

75,000 Left Homeless by Lava Deluge

Another 200,000 Seen Deprived of Jobs as Riceland Is Blanketed

DENPASAR, Bali (AP) — The deluge of lava from sacred Agung volcano was reported to have stopped today after five days of eruption. The governor of Bali said at least 1,100 islanders have perished.

"We have 75,000 homeless people to feed at this point, and we need help from everybody," said Gov. Anak Agung Sudetja.

He said another 200,000 may have lost their livelihood. Thousands of acres of once-fertile rice land lay beneath tons of lava and ash that have blanketed Bali's northeast coast.

An estimated 100,000 Balinese were fleeing the stricken area. Riding and afoot, they carried what possessions they could as they tried to get away from the 10,308-foot volcano which erupted briefly in February after years of virtual quiet, then went into violent action Sunday.

Reports from the disaster area said a heavy column of smoke still billowed from the crater.

A civil defense spokesman in Jakarta said earlier that more violent eruptions were feared, and authorities were trying to clear about 250,000 persons from a radius of 20 miles around the volcano.

A mushroom-shaped cloud of smoke could be seen from aircraft flying into Denpasar, but no ash was visible in this capital, about 70 miles southwest of Gunung (Mount) Agung.

Many foreign tourists were on the island, but all were believed safe. Most of them are staying in Denpasar.

Agung awoke with a roar last month. Its first eruption killed 17 people.

Last Sunday it came back with a second explosion, pushing lava down its slopes and burying hundreds of people under a deadly umbrella of searing ash. The governor said most people were killed by the ash cloud. He said the temperature of the ash was 230 degrees.

People who survived the holocaust at 7 a.m. Sunday said it became as dark as night for two minutes, and the ash choked almost everything.

The governor said hundreds were roasted alive in three villages just south of the mountain as they knelt in prayer.

Travelers returning from the area in Bali's northeast reported survivors said many priests and their disciples refused to leave their villages despite the danger.

The governor said many people died in this way in the villages of Sebudi, Sorghah and Sebiu.

The daily religious Balinese—whose life centers on devotion to a mixture of Hinduism and Buddhism—believe that Gunung Agung is the seat of the gods. To many of them the eruption was a sign the deities were angry.

Denpasar Hospital treated eight patients, all first to third degree burns, mostly on their feet—a result of walking through blazing ash.

There was little indication here in the island capital of the disaster in the northeastern corner of this tropical paradise, famed as a tourist mecca. Heavy rain—blamed by some people here on (Continued on Page 2)

Pupils Face Expulsion On Steady Date Ban

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—The Rev. James A. Carey, who has outlawed steady dating at St. Michael's Roman Catholic High School, warned Thursday that 30 students faced expulsion if they didn't heed his ban by Monday.

Father Carey put his ban against steady dating into effect March 1, warning students they would be expelled if they did not break off with their "steadies."

Man Bound to Jury For Strangling Wife

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Alger Bert Henegar, 24, a former shoe clerk, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of second-degree murder today in the death Wednesday of his wife, Patricia Anne, 22.

Municipal Judge Bruce Jenkins bound Henegar to the grand jury under $2,000 bond.

Henegar is accused of strangling his estranged wife during a domestic quarrel in the couple's Linden area home.

Ohio River Due To Crest

Stream Is Expected To Fall Saturday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The rain-swollen Ohio River was expected to crest today—for the third time—along most of its 980-mile length and then begin falling slowly.

The U.S. Weather Bureau, which forecast no more rain or snow in quantities to affect the streams, said the crest at Cincinnati would be about 59.3 feet at 7 a.m. This would be 7.3 feet above flood stage and close to the 60-foot level where serious damage starts.

By Saturday morning, the Ohio is expected to fall to 59 feet at Cincinnati and the forecast called for a stage of 58 feet Sunday.

Elsewhere, the Weather Bureau expected crests of 60.8 feet at Louisville, Ky.; 58.6 feet at Markland, Ind.; 58.8 feet at Maysville, Ky.; and 58 feet at Portsmouth, Ohio. The flood stages are 55 feet at Louisville, 51 feet at Markland and 50 at Portsmouth and Maysville.

The waters will continue to rise during the afternoon at Chilo, Ohio, where a 56.7 crest was expected around 4 p.m. and will sink to 56 feet by Sunday morning. Chilo's flood stage is 49 feet.

All along the river, residents prepared to evacuate their homes for the second time this month. At New Richmond, where floods are no novelty, old-timers said merchants never before had to move out twice in one week.

The task of cleaning up towns was interrupted again and river folk waited for another layer of smelly brown mud to be dumped in their yards and streets.

Roads were blocked. Schoolchildren rejoined as classes were suspended. The Red Cross prepared to feed and shelter more refugees.

Even basketball fans' lives were affected. Kentucky State police said the Ohio might make U.S. 42 impassable at Carrollton on the way between Cincinnati and Louisville, scene for the NCAA tourney finals.

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Mary Ferguson, the housewife who vowed she'd lose 50 of her 244 pounds in two weeks, is now 10 pounds lighter—and says she has lost two inches from her hips, three and one-half inches from her bust.

Her waist, alas, hasn't changed yet.

Mrs. Ferguson, 36, who chose a hotel room for fasting in private, is sticking to a diet of coffee, tea and bouillon. She eats no solids.

Doomed Killer 'Rides Lightning' After Wisecracking to End

OSSINING, N.Y. (AP) — Five-time killer Frederick C. Wood was executed in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair Thursday night after anticipating death with a wisecrack and a smile.

To the end, Wood repudiated the efforts of persons he termed "do gooders" to gain him a reprieve. A derelict who had spent 30 of his 51 years in prison, Wood said he had no wish for further life behind bars.

Instead, he pleaded for an opportunity to "ride the lightning" of the electric chair.

Wood arrived for his "ride" at 10:01 p.m. four minutes later he had come to the end of the journey.

As he entered the death house of the prison 35 miles north of New York City Wood looked around and cracked to the witnesses.

"I have a speech to make on an educational project. You will see the effect of electricity on Wood. Enjoy yourself."

Then, laughing, Wood walked to the electric chair with a cigarette dangling from his mouth, brushed the chair off with his hand and calmly told the assemblage:

"I'll be with you in a moment. Wait'll I get through with my cigarette."

He tossed the cigarette to the floor and sat down as guards strapped him into the death chair. He was still smiling when the traditional black hood was lowered over his face.

Lawyers and New York Civil Liberties Committee spokesmen who did not even know Wood, fought to the last to save him, contending he was insane. Hours before the execution, three associate U.S. Supreme Court justices turned the appeal down, and Chief Justice Earl Warren refused to intercede.

Psychiatrists had pronounced Wood legally sane during his prosecution, but attorney Norman Dorson contended in a last-ditch appeal that there was enough evidence of insanity in Wood's history to indicate he was insane.

Dorson, a New York University associate professor of law, filed a petition in Washington asking Supreme Court Justice John Harlan to stay Wood's execution to permit a sanity hearing. Harlan turned it down without comment.

In a letter from Sing Sing's death row, Wood had declared: "I have had three stages of execution thus far, one automatic (beyond my control) and two effected by well-intentioned lawyers, as 'do gooders.'"

"I want no more. I really want to ride the lightning. I do not welcome any intrusion into this stinking case of mine."

Wood was condemned for beating to death John Rescigo, 62, and Frederick Sess, 78, during a 1960 wine drinking party in New York City. Less than five weeks earlier, he had been paroled from a 17-year prison term levied for the 1942 fatal beating of an Elmira, N.Y. man.

After his arrest for the 1960 slayings, Wood confessed two slayings of which the authorities had not known—of a 16-year-old girl friend in 1926 and of an Elmira woman in 1933.

Pentagon Told

would tell if he calmed them. Before he spoke to newsmen these developments had added to the storm:

The Defense Department leaked to newsmen a memorandum protesting that the subcommittee's investigators had subjected Air Force employees to "oral abuse and pressure tactics" smacking of gestapo tactics.

Jerome Adlerman, subcommittee counsel, fired back that the charge was false and designed to harass one of his aides who, Adlerman said, had uncovered "enormous errors" in figures the Defense Department used to justify its award of the contract.

The Senate itself got into a boiling debate over the Air Force memorandum with McClellan rejecting its charges and caustically declaring he would call off the hearings if the Senate would pass a resolution ordering him to "cease and desist."

Hot words flew in the hearing room itself as the subcommittee received testimony first from Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric, then from McNamara himself.

The secretary went into the hearing room armed with suitcases crammed with documents. He elaborated on a sworn statement he had submitted last week, was asked a few questions, and then released pending recall for lengthy questioning after the subcommittee has compiled the rest of its evidence. A transcript of his testimony was to be released, possibly after being censored, later in the day.

Aside from the rows, the investigation has centered on the question of why General Dynamics won the contract.

Testimony has been introduced that military boards had picked the Boeing proposals promising the cheaper and better plane but were overruled by the civilian secretaries.

In his statement, McNamara said the General Dynamics plan would use more of the same components for both Air Force and Navy versions of the TFX, thus saving more money.

The Pentagon leaked the critical Air Force memorandum as Gilpatric was striving to calm subcommittee anger over an anonymous Pentagon spokesman's weekend statement to newsmen charging that Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and McClellan had maneuvered the department into an unfavorable position in the hearings.

Gilpatric acknowledged he was one of the anonymous spokesmen who had talked to about 14 newsmen, but he denied making the statements reported by the newsmen. He insisted he has been unable to learn who had made them.

Word of the charges of abuse of witnesses reached senators in the hearing room, in the midst of Gilpatric's testimony.

Rhodes Mute On Number of Firings Ahead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has denied that he has any idea how many state employees would be removed from civil service status under a reorganization bill being readied for introduction in the Ohio General Assembly.

Rhodes confirmed at a press conference Thursday that the bill will be introduced but declined to give details. The governor refused to call the measure "ripper legislation," the name some lawmakers are using.

Some unconfirmed reports say such a bill has already been prepared but is stymied because its terms are not acceptable to prospective sponsors. Rhodes denied that his office has sent the bill to the legislature.

On other matters, Rhodes said he is opposed to a one per cent increase in the state's 3 per cent sales tax, as proposed by the Ohio Education Association. The OEA has asked the increase to aid public education.

the heat rising from the volcano—pelted the town Thursday.

Most of northeast Bali was put off limits to unofficial visitors. Police and troops manned roadblocks on major routes leading into the area. Many northeast towns have been evacuated.

The sacred temple of Besakih on the slope of Agung was reported to have escaped damage.

Besakih is the scene of a festival, held every 100 years to purify the island of roaming ghosts, when Agung erupted. Many islanders believe the gods of the volcano were angry because the people had failed to ask their permission to hold the festival.

Agung is part of a chain of volcanic peaks stretching across the Indonesian Archipelago. It lies some 600 miles to the east of the scene of one of the most catastrophic eruptions ever recorded.

In 1883, the volcanic islet of Krakatoa erupted in the Sunda Strait, causing tidal waves that killed 35,000 people throughout the islands. Dust clouds from the eruption were seen round the world.

"I'll be with you in a moment. Wait'll I get through with my cigarette."

He tossed the cigarette to the floor and sat down as guards strapped him into the death chair. He was still smiling when the traditional black hood was lowered over his face.

Lawyers and New York Civil Liberties Committee spokesmen, who did not even know Wood, fought to the last to save him, contending he was insane. Hours before the execution, three associate U.S. Supreme Court justices turned the appeal down, and Chief Justice Earl Warren refused to intercede.

Psychiatrists had pronounced Wood legally sane during his prosecution, but attorney Norman Dorsen contended in a last-ditch appeal that there was enough evidence of insanity in Wood's history to indicate he was insane.

Dorsen, a New York University associate professor of law, filed a petition in Washington asking Supreme Court Justice John Harlan to stay Wood's execution. Harlan turned it down without comment.

In a letter from Sing Sing's death row, Wood had declared:

"I have had three stays of execution thus far, one automatic (beyond my control) and two effected by well-intentioned lawyers, as 'do gooders.'"

"I want no more. I really want to ride the lightning. I do not welcome any intrusion into this sinking case of mine."

Wood was condemned for beating to death John Rescigo, 62, and Frederick Sess, 78, during a 1960 wine drinking party in New York City. Less than five weeks earlier, he had been paroled from a 17-year prison term levied for the 1942 fatal beating of an Elmira, N.Y. man.

After his arrest for the 1960 slayings, Wood confessed two slayings of which the authorities had not known-of a 16-year-old girl friend in 1926 and of an Elmira woman in 1933.

Pentagon Told

Before he spoke to newsmen these developments had added to the storm:

The Defense Department leaked to newsmen a memorandum protesting that the subcommittee's investigators had subjected Air Force employees to "oral abuse and pressure tactics" smacking of Gestapo tactics.

Jerome Adlerman, subcommittee counsel, fired back that the charge was false and designed to harass one of his aides who, Adlerman said, had uncovered "enormous errors" in figures the Defense Department used to justify its award of the contract.

The Senate itself got into a boiling debate over the Air Force memorandum with McClellan rejecting its charges and caustically declaring he would call off the hearings if the Senate would pass a resolution ordering him to "cease and desist."

Hot words flew in the hearing room itself as the subcommittee received testimony first from Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatric, then from McNamara himself.

The secretary went into the hearing room armed with suitcases crammed with documents. He elaborated on a sworn statement he had submitted last week, was asked a few questions, and then released pending recall for lengthy questioning after the subcommittee has compiled the rest of its evidence. A transcript of his testimony was to be released, possibly after being censored, later in the day.

Aside from the rows, the investigation has centered on the question of why General Dynamics won the contract.

Testimony has been introduced that military boards had picked the Boeing proposals promising the cheaper and better plane but were overruled by the civilian secretaries.

In his statement, McNamara said the General Dynamics plan would use more of the same components for both Air Force and Navy versions of the TFX, thus saving more money.

The Pentagon leaked the critical Air Force memorandum as Gilpatric was striving to calm subcommittee anger over an anonymous Pentagon spokesman's weekend statement to newsmen charging that Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and McClellan had maneuvered the department into an unfavorable position in the hearings.

Gilpatric acknowledged he was one of the anonymous spokesmen who had talked to about 14 newsmen, but he denied making the statements reported by the newsmen. He insisted he has been unable to learn who had made them.

Word of the charges of abuse of witnesses reached senators in the hearing room, in the midst of Gilpatric's testimony.

Auto Accident Results in Damage Suit

A $7,330 damages suit was filed today with the Pickaway County Clerk of Courts office by a Mt. Sterling attorney representing Curtis W. Hix, Route 3, Mt. Sterling.

The petition named Virginia Smith, Chillicothe, as defendant in the court action. The suit was filed as the result of an auto accident Nov. 22, 1961, on Route 56, west of Circleville.

Hix alleges that the defendant drove her auto left of center into his vehicle and that the suit was filed for damages and injuries received in the crash.

The petition states that Hix received a fractured rib, a laceration near the right eye and other chest injuries. The plaintiff also alleges $1,000 impairment to his earning power due to the accident.

Robert Wright, Mt. Sterling is the plaintiff's attorney.

Rhodes Mute On Number of Firings Ahead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has denied that he has any idea how many state employees would be removed from civil service status under a reorganization bill being readied for introduction in the Ohio General Assembly.

Rhodes confirmed at a press conference Thursday that the bill will be introduced but declined to give details. The governor refused to call the measure "ripper legislation," the name some lawmakers are using.

Some unconfirmed reports say such a bill has already been prepared but is stymied because its terms are not acceptable to prospective sponsors. Rhodes denied that his office has sent the bill to the legislature.

On other matters, Rhodes said he is opposed to a one per cent increase in the state's 3 per cent sales tax, as proposed by the Ohio Education Association. The OEA has asked the increase to aid public education.

the heat rising from the volcano—pelted the town Thursday.

Most of northeast Bali was put off limits to unofficial visitors. Police and troops manned roadblocks on major routes leading into the area. Many northeast towns have been evacuated.

The sacred temple of Besakih on the slope of Agung was reported to have escaped damage.

Besakih is the scene of a festival, held every 100 years to purify the island of roaming ghosts, when Agung erupted. Many islanders believe the gods of the volcano were angry because the people had failed to ask their permission to hold the festival.

Agung is part of a chain of volcanic peaks stretching across the Indonesian Archipelago. It lies some 600 miles to the east of the scene of one of the most catastrophic eruptions ever recorded.

In 1883, the volcanic islet of Krakatoa erupted in the Sunda Strait, causing tidal waves that killed 35,000 people throughout the islands. Dust clouds from the eruption were seen round the world.

Greek Orthodox Community Celebrates Its Millenium

MOUNT ATHOS, Greece (AP)—This year the Eastern Orthodox Christian community of Mount Athos joins the very select group of institutions that have survived for one thousand years.

A celebration of the millennium started this month at a meeting held in Istanbul by the Greek Orthodox Patriarch Althanagoras, under whose spiritual leadership the holy community depends. Further celebrations will be held in Athens and Salonika in May and 250 guests will be invited for commemorative services on Mount Athos during the latter part of May.

It was in 963 that Emperor Nicephorus Phocas issued a golden bull, or charter, to Saint Athanasius the Athonite to establish a monastery on the end of this 30-mile-long, mountainous, narrow peninsula.

When Phocas earlier fought the Saracens on the island of Crete he had called upon Saint Athanasius for devout prayer to the Almighty. Winning, Phocas issued the golden bull and the monastery of Megisti Lavra was founded the same year.

Today there are 20 major monasteries on the remote peninsula. Eleven are cenobitic, where everything is shared and food partaken in the refectory; nine are idiorhythmic, where property can be held and food is cooked separately in each monk's cell.

Worship is the same in all the monasteries. All the monks pray in the main church from around 2 a. m. until about 8 a. m., except on the eves of the saints and feast days, when all-night vigils can reach up to 14 hours. Two-thirds of the days of the year are fast days, when no wine and not even oil may be partaken. Meat is never allowed in the cenobitic monasteries.

The basic belief of the monks is that their lives are but transient and therefore can be disregarded in man's purpose and destiny. The ideal is man's approximation to the divine and the Athos monks attempt to proceed as far toward this objective as possible while they are on earth.

They believe that achievement of that objective can only be secured by escape from the turmoil of the world. They believe noise distracts them from the divine contemplation, which is essential to approach the ideal. Their way to keep their minds to the point is continual prayer, penance and simplicity.

Mount Vernon Jury Breaks $500,000 Will

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—A jury has broken the will of a trucking executive who left his half-million-dollar estate to the nurse he married a few months before death in 1961.

A Knox County Common Pleas Court jury ruled in favor of the three adult children of W. Ray Ward, who brought suit. The widow, Mrs. Olive McIntosh Ward will receive one-third of the estate now, and Ward's children will share the remaining two-thirds, an attorney for the children said.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pam can't keep a secret. She'll probably tell us what she wished before the cake is half eaten.

Whatever her wish, it will be for a little girl type of thing.

But—what of me? What do I wish for my daughter? Success in a career . . . happy marriage . . . children . . . a beautiful home . . . a fair share of worldly goods . . . health . . . happiness?

I suppose I wish all of these things for Pam, in some measure. But if I had to limit myself to a single wish—I would ask for her a deep and abiding faith. How wonderful it is to have an unshaken belief in God's ways and His works, plus the conviction of His love for us.

Some of us may be limited in our ability to give our children material things, but we need never stint on teaching them spiritual values. Start taking your children to church and church school this Sunday.

Greek Orthodox Community Celebrates Its Millenium

MOUNT ATHOS, Greece (AP)—This year the Eastern Orthodox Christian community of Mount Athos joins the very select group of institutions that have survived for one thousand years.

A celebration of the millennium started this month at a meeting held in Istanbul by the Greek Orthodox Patriarch Althanagoras, under whose spiritual leadership the holy community depends. Further celebrations will be held in Athens and Salonika in May and 250 guests will be invited for commemorative services on Mount Athos during the latter part of May.

It was in 963 that Emperor Nicephorus Phocas issued a golden bull, or charter, to Saint Athanasius the Athonite to establish a monastery on the end of this 30-mile-long, mountainous, narrow peninsula.

When Phocas earlier fought the Saracens on the island of Crete he had called upon Saint Athanasius for devout prayer to the Almighty. Winning, Phocas issued the golden bull and the monastery of Megisti Lavra was founded the same year.

Today there are 20 major monasteries on the remote peninsula. Eleven are cenobitic, where everything is shared and food partaken in the refectory; nine are idiorhythmic, where property can be held and food is cooked separately in each monk's cell.

Worship is the same in all the monasteries. All the monks pray in the main church from around 2 a. m. until about 8 a. m., except on the eves of the saints and feast days, when all-night vigils can reach up to 14 hours. Two-thirds of the days of the year are fast days, when no wine and not even oil may be partaken. Meat is never allowed in the cenobitic monasteries.

The basic belief of the monks is that their lives are but transient and therefore can be disregarded in man's purpose and destiny. The ideal is man's approximation to the divine and the Athos monks attempt to proceed as far toward this objective as possible while they are on earth.

They believe that achievement of that objective can only be secured by escape from the turmoil of the world. They believe noise distracts them from the divine contemplation, which is essential to approach the ideal. Their way to keep their minds to the point is continual prayer, penance and simplicity.

The majority of the 2,000 monks in the community are Greek and all monks on being accepted automatically acquire Greek nationality. Monks can be accepted only after being attached as a novice to an elder for at least a year. In the last 10 years, Athos has been averaging 25 novices a year.

Make Church - Going a Habit

NEW YORK (AP)—If you're figuring your income tax return this weekend it may be little consolation to you, but—

The Internal Revenue Service says the higher the collections climb, the lower the cost of the collection per dollar.

Well, the total collected is getting mighty high. And the bulk comes through voluntary compliance. IRS says that's the main reason it can hold collection costs down.

If you didn't make out those forms voluntarily and if your employer didn't do the withholding routine, costs would soar.

With one thing and another, it now costs around 45 cents for each $100 the taxpayers shell out.

To put that into the big figures the U.S. Treasury is accustomed to in fiscal 1962 collections came to $99,440,839,245 and the operating outlay of the IRS was $450,080,420.

Biggest cost item was salaries for the 56,510 employees—$3,357 in national headquarters and 53,153 in the field. Congress has authorized hiring 2,790 more this fiscal year, to make more audits, mathematical checks, tax fraud investigations and check-ups on the minority who don't file. The 20 per cent of costs not accounted for by salaries goes for tax forms, office rental, equipment and furniture—and travel expenses. IRS says mechanical handling of returns is cutting costs and soon will make still greater inroads.

In fiscal 1962 taxes on income brought in $71.9 billion, almost two-thirds of that from individuals and the rest from corporations. Estate and gift taxes added $2.8 billion, excise taxes totaled $12.7 billion, with alcohol accounting for $3.3 billion and tobacco $2 billion.

Mortimer M. Caplin, internal revenue commissioner, in a foreword to the book, "The American Way in Taxation," stresses IRS programs aimed at attaining still higher levels of voluntary compliance. The book, by Lillian Doris, published by Prentice-Hall, celebrates the 100th birthday of the IRS.

While the federal government gets 72 per cent of its revenue from levies on individual and corporate incomes, state and local governments have many other routes to the taxpayer's pocket.

In fiscal 1961 state governments collected $19 billion, and Miss Doris lists the sources in order of their returns: general sales, use or gross receipts taxes; motor vehicle fuel sales; individual and corporate incomes; motor vehicle taxes and licenses; alcoholic beverage sales taxes and licenses; tobacco production sales levies; property, severance, death and gift taxes; and also unemployment compensation levies.

So that federal income return you're sweating out isn't the end of the tax business—as if you didn't know.

Letter to The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. They must be signed by the writer with a complete return address. However the name and address will not be used in the published letter upon request of the writer. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to a recent Letter to the Editor in The Herald.

We realize the less than pleasant situation in the so-called "Beantown" area and have for a number of years. However, there are a few homes here that are clean of rubbish and are in good condition.

The houses may not be the fanciest, but they are "home" to the people who live in them.

The local Health Department has insisted on the need for sanitary plumbing in the area. However, this advice has not been followed in all cases.

It would be wise to dispose of the little houses on the back end of lots and have the holes filled in. I'm sure some unpleasant odors would disappear if this were done.

I have owned property and paid taxes for 20 years, but have received little from the city.

People talk of cleaning up this end of town. But why is it trash gathered elsewhere is dumped in this area?

May I suggest that persons interested in conditions here take a tour of the area, starting with the alleys. I'm sure it would prove interesting.

Dear Abby: An Equal Task!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of three sons, and I've heard many other mothers say, "You are lucky you have boys. You don't have to worry the way mothers of daughters do!" Abby, this burns me up. They think if a girl gets in trouble it's her funeral, and boys don't create any problems no matter what they do. What can I say to let them know they are dead wrong?

MOTHER OF BOYS
DEAR MOTHER: People who make such thoughtless remarks should be told that when a girl "gets in trouble" the parents of the boy who is responsible are just as heartsick as the girl's parents. And, furthermore, since the males are supposedly the natural aggressors, the job of rearing decent and disciplined boys is certainly equal to that of raising well-behaved girls.

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you asking you to put me in touch with a man signed FLORIDA, who was looking for me and I know we could have made a wonderful match. I was terribly disappointed when you wrote back saying that as a matter of policy you did not put people in touch with each other through your column. Why do you have such a policy when you could get so many nice people together?

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU
DEAR DISAPPOINTED: You would be more disappointed were I to abandon my policy and get one "nice" person (you!) together with one who was not so nice. I can't investigate everyone who writes to me. So rather than pair a lamb with a wolf, I stick to my policy.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it is right for parents to permit two children under ten years of age to watch the dog give birth to a litter of puppies? I just got a phone call that my daughter - in - law thought it was all right, and my son approved it. I would like to know what you think of letting children watch this procedure.

SHOCKED
DEAR SHOCKED: I know of no better way for young people to learn about the beginning of life, which is a subject baffling to youngsters - and not easy for oldsters to explain.

DEAR ABBY: Cheers for BOTHERED, and her comment on, "My, you look nice TODAY." The next most complimentary compliment when I'm all dressed up is "Is that NEW?"

TWICE BOTHERED
Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Jenkins Twins Complete Soil Collection from All 50 States

Janie and Jonie Jenkins, 9-year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Jenkins, 666 E. Mound St., have completed a soil collection from each of the 50 states.

Interest in the collection mounted during a trip to Mississippi last summer to visit their grandmother.

Name Omitted From Honor Roll

Rita Garrett, a sixth grader at Franklin-Mound Elementary School, was included on the honor roll for the fourth six-week grading period. Her name was omitted from the list published on last week's school page.

They noticed the soil differed greatly in color and wondered if it was as noticeable in other states.

The girls were assisted by various people after an article appeared in The Herald's Once Around Roundtown column pointing out the need for soil from certain states.

Janie and Jonie completed their collection in time to display the 50 samples on a map of the United States, also made by the twins, in the Circleville Science Fair.

Recognition was given for the soil collection at the Science Fair. Entries by elementary students were not judged this year.

They are in the third grade at Franklin-Mound Elementary School. Miss Elsie Updyke is the teacher.

Teays River Is Buried Watercourse

By GEORGE MCDOWELL

Editor's Note — Questions have been asked from time to time in regard to information about the ancient Teays River in Pickaway County. This article is an attempt to offer an explanation to some of these questions.

The Division of Geological Survey, Department of Natural Resources, State of Ohio, and the Ohio Division of Water believes that most knowledge of this and other ancient, pre-glacial rivers comes from the drilling of water wells. Through records accumulated from the drillers of wells these old river valleys are being delineated more accurately.

We know that since the time of the Teays River several advances of the glaciers have filled most of the old valleys with sand and gravel and silt. Since the ground-water resources of these ancient river valleys have scarcely been tapped, we know they represent an indispensable source of water for future use on which many Ohioans and Pickaway Countians may depend for their existence and prosperity.

Nearly 80 per cent of present ground water is pumped from underground sand and gravel. Highest yields of water are from these ancient partially filled preglacial valleys.

These buried valleys, of which Teays Valley is one, are the areas most favorable for future testing in search of new ground water supplies for industry and domestic use.

ONE OF THE most common questions asked: where in Pickaway County was the old Teays River located? State geologists, from their knowledge of water wells drilled, have located the river as entering the county from the west, near Era, and then following the present Scioto River Valley south.

At Ashville, an ancient river entered the Teays River from the north. It is believed that the present Teays Valley High School is located near the place where these rivers met in Teays time.

Another question asked is whether the Teays River did pass through Pickaway County through a short section of the southwest corner. A map in Ohio Geological Survey Bulletin 44, Water in Ohio, did show this in 1943. Wells drilled since 1943 show this idea to be erroneous.

All schools in the area have been notified of the contest. Each has been asked to limit contestants to two speeches.

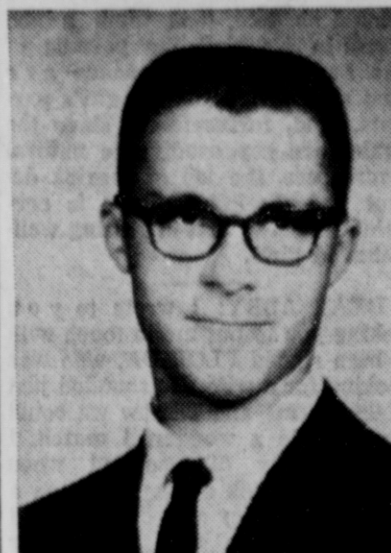

Judges for the local competition will be Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Douthett and Donald DeVault.

Jenkins Twins Complete Soil Collection from All 50 States

Janie and Jonie Jenkins, 9-year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Jenkins, 666 E. Mound St., have completed a soil collection from each of the 50 states.

Interest in the collection mounted during a trip to Mississippi last summer to visit their grandmother.

They noticed the soil differed greatly in color and wondered if it was as noticeable in other states.

The girls were assisted by various people after an article appeared in The Herald's Once Around Roundtown column pointing out the need for soil from certain states.

Janie and Jonie completed their collection in time to display the 50 samples on a map of the United States, also made by the twins, in the Circleville Science Fair.

Recognition was given for the soil collection at the Science Fair. Entries by elementary students were not judged this year.

They are in the third grade at Franklin-Mound Elementary School. Miss Elsie Updyke is the teacher.

Name Omitted From Honor Roll

Rita Garrett, a sixth grader at Franklin-Mound Elementary School, was included on the honor roll for the fourth six-week grading period. Her name was omitted from the list published on last week's school page.

Teays River Is Buried Watercourse

Editor's Note — Questions have been asked from time to time in regard to information about the ancient Teays River in Pickaway County. This article is an attempt to offer an explanation to some of these questions.

The Division of Geological Survey, Department of Natural Resources, State of Ohio, and the Ohio Division of Water believes that most knowledge of this and other ancient, pre-glacial rivers comes from the drilling of water wells. Through records accumulated from the drillers of wells these old river valleys are being delineated more accurately.

We know that since the time of the Teays River several advances of the glaciers have filled most of the old valleys with sand and gravel and silt. Since the ground-water resources of these ancient river valleys have scarcely been tapped, we know they represent an indispensable source of water for future use on which many Ohioans and Pickaway Countyans may depend for their existence and prosperity.

Nearly 80 per cent of present ground water is pumped from underground sand and gravel. High-yield wells of water are from these ancient partially filled preglacial valleys.

These buried valleys, of which Teays Valley is one, are the areas most favorable for future testing in search of new ground water supplies for industry and domestic use.

ONE OF THE most common questions asked: where in Pickaway County was the old Teays River located? State geologists, from their knowledge of water wells drilled, have located the river as entering the county from the west, near Era, and then following the present Scioto River Valley south.

At Ashville, an ancient river entered the Teays River from the north. It is believed that the present Teays Valley High School is located near the place where these rivers met in Teays time.

Another question asked is whether the Teays River did pass through Pickaway County through a short section of the southwest corner. A map in Ohio Geological Survey Bulletin 44, Water in Ohio, did show this in 1943. Wells drilled since 1943 show this idea to be erroneous.

Philos Speech Judging Set For Tuesday

Philos Lodge No. 64, Knights of Pythias, will conduct judging of its annual speech contest on Tuesday.

Judging will be held on the third floor of the Pythian Castle. The contest is open to all high school students in the county.

Awards will include $50 for first, $25 for second, $15 for third and $10 for fourth. The top winner will be eligible for further statewide K of P competition.

All schools in the area have been notified of the contest. Each has been asked to limit contestants to two speeches.

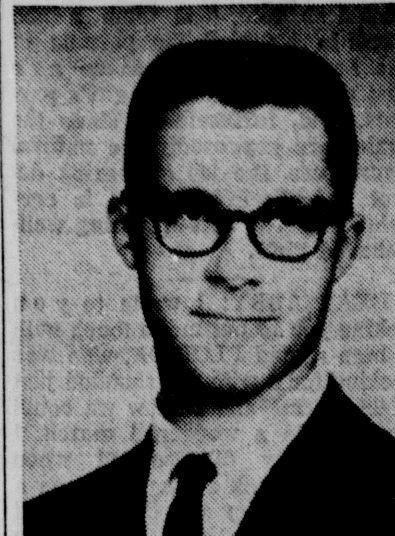

Judges for the local competition will be Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Douthett and Donald DeVault.

CHS Senior Class Presents 'Teahouse of August Moon'

By CHERYL MUMAW

Last night the senior class presented "The Teahouse of the August Moon" in the Circleville High School auditorium. The audience enjoyed the entertaining three-act play immensely. The play started promptly at 8 p. m. and brought to a good opening night crowd a delightful evening of characterization, humor, music, and color.

The main setting of the play is in Tobiki Village on the island of Okinawa and shows amusing incidents that occur with the United States Occupation Forces stationed there during World War II.

Four Americans, John Butler, Jim Stewart, Jon Anderson, and Granville Jones, undertake to build a school in Tobiki with the help of the villagers, Sakini, Carolyn Walters, helps by serving as the interpreter for the group.

The other members of the cast are: Lynn Reichelderfer, Jack Cook, Bill Clifton, Brenda Smith, Cheryl Mumaw, Fred Hoover, Beth Rickey, Connie Parmar, Patti Hines, Elaine Goldschmidt, Norma Easterday, Marilyn Sprenger, Skip Hanson, Elaine Hutzelman, Sandy Ward, Ray Ferguson, Dick Crable, George Grigg, Mike Lorentz, Sandy Rhoades, Sherry Garner and Glenn Plum.

The play itself was very good, but the authentic costumes made it even better. The variety was great and the colors were bright as they added to the scenery. Each costume seemed to be perfectly matched to the character. Music and lighting actually set the mood of the play and also interested the audience. Original music was used from the New York stage performance and the colorful lighting complemented it.

Nothing like "The Teahouse of the August Moon" has ever been presented at Circleville High School and it certainly can be labeled as a success from last night's performance! Tonight it is being presented again at 8 p. m. and will undoubtedly play to a packed house. A few tickets are still available in the main hall preceding the play and may be obtained by calling Circleville High School after 3:15 p. m. The remaining tickets will go on sale at 6:30 p. m.

Locomotive Fireman Of Year Is Selected

CLEVELAND (AP)—William R. Bennett of Butte, Mont., today was named "locomotive fireman of 1962" by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. The Cleveland-based union said a five-judge panel selected the 45-year-old Bennett, a locomotive helper, because he risked his own life to save the life of a 2-year-old boy near Rocker, Mont., last June.

MUSIC INSTRUCTORS — Miss Mary Jo Gaskalla, Teays Valley High School music instructor and Jack Evans, professor of music at Ohio State University, discuss the TV concert band.

OSU Prof Hears Teays Valley Concert Band

Professor of Music Jack Evans of Ohio State University, Columbus, visited TVHS recently to hear the concert band.

"If I had been a judge at the Whitehall-Yearling High School District Band Contest, I would have given the band a superior rating," commented Evans.

Although Professor Evans did not judge Teays Valley's concert band at Whitehall-Yearling High School, the unit did receive superior ratings on March: Onward, Jedermann Overture, and Ballet Music from Prince Igor and also in sight reading. The TV Band will play at the State band contest, on April 27 in Columbus.

A graduate of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Professor Evans is head of the brass instrument division at Ohio State University, director of the OSU marching band and director of the OSU Buckeye Band.

An instructor at Ohio State University since 1947, he has had extensive experience at judging music contests and his marching band techniques are in great demand at summer workshops.

Prof. Evans taught for 10 years at Shaker Heights High School, Cleveland. He has played with the Cleveland Orchestra and the Columbus Symphony.

"Teays Valley's band is very fine. Although the size of the school is small, it is good to see such fine balance between sections and the technical advancement of the individual players," the musician commented.

His advice to young musicians is: "Get serious about music. Talk to your music teacher. Go to guidance days at various colleges. Take all the music tests you can. Also have a good background in English and academic subjects."

Good Old Fatso

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Mrs. Jeanne Kunkel, a grandmother and part-time cashier, raises pedigree cats in a loft.

She has 30 cats being groomed as pets or as show animals. What began as an impulse now takes up a good part of her every day.

On her first visit to a cat exhibition, she fell for a blue Persian and bought him for $40 for a pet. A few years later she bought a female blue Persian.

Mrs. Kunkel now enters several cats in competition herself. Her current pride is a champion silver Persian officially dubbed Weequahic Silver Sonata, although he answers to Fatso around the house.

Professor of Music Jack Evans of Ohio State University, Columbus, visited TVHS recently to hear the concert band.

"If I had been a judge at the Whitehall-Yearling High School District Band Contest, I would have given the band a superior rating," commented Evans.

Although Professor Evans did not judge Teays Valley's concert band at Whitehall-Yearling High School, the unit did receive superior ratings on March: Onward, Jedermann Overture, and Ballet Music from Prince Igor and also in sight reading. The TV Band will play at the State band contest, on April 27 in Columbus.

A graduate of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Professor Evans is head of the brass instrument division at Ohio State University, director of the OSU marching band and director of the OSU Buckeye Band.

An instructor at Ohio State University since 1947, he has had extensive experience at judging music contests and his marching band techniques are in great demand at summer workshops.

Prof. Evans taught for 10 years at Shaker Heights High School, Cleveland. He has played with the Cleveland Orchestra and the Columbus Symphony.

"Teays Valley's band is very fine. Although the size of the school is small, it is good to see such fine balance between sections and the technical advancement of the individual players," the musician commented.

His advice to young musicians is: "Get serious about music. Talk to your music teacher. Go to guidance days at various colleges. Take all the music tests you can. Also have a good background in English and academic subjects."

Good Old Fatso

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Mrs. Jeanne Kunkel, a grandmother and part-time cashier, raises pedigree cats in a loft.

She has 30 cats being groomed as pets or as show animals. What began as an impulse now takes up a good part of her every day.

On her first visit to a cat exhibition, she fell for a blue Persian and bought him for $40 for a pet. A few years later she bought a female blue Persian.

Mrs. Kunkel now enters several cats in competition herself. Her current pride is a champion silver Persian officially dubbed Wee-quah Silver Sonata, although he answers to Fatso around the house.

Jesus Answers His Critics

A DAY OF INTERROGATION IN WHICH CHRIST
REVEALS THE TWO GREATEST PRINCIPLES THAT SHOULD CONTROL MEN

Scripture—Mark 12:13-14.

By N. SPEER JONES

THIS WEEK'S lesson is a continuation of the events which took place on Tuesday of Holy Week. It includes three more questions by interrogators sent to trap Him, a question which Christ asks them in return, His condemnation of these supposedly high and mighty beings, and His offsetting commendation of a humble woman who is truly following God's way.

The reason for these interrogations of Jesus was, as we have seen, the jealousy-driven desire on the part of the Jewish authorities to rid themselves of Christ without incurring the wrath of the multitude, which at this time showed itself favorable to Him. They reasoned that if they could discredit Him with the multitude, they would be able to do away with Him.

For the first question they sent a group of Pharisees and Herodians. The Herodians were owed a fiscal payment to Rome.

Here we see Christ's emphasis on the necessity of temporal government along with obedience to God's spiritual rule.

The next question is asked by the Sadducees, and this fact in itself marks their question with insincerity; the Sadducees did not believe in a resurrection of any sort, so why should they be concerned about marriage in a future life?

The third question is asked by a scribe and it naturally concerns the laws, the chief concern of the scribes, who argue interminably about them.
For instance, at Christ's time they held that there were exactly 613 precepts, comprising 248 "commands" and 365 "prohibitions." They were so preoccupied with these petty considerations that they failed to realize the importance of God's first commandment, as declared in the Decalogue.

GOLDEN TEXT

"For I have not spoken on My own authority; the Father who sent Me has Himself given Me commandment what to say and what to speak."—John 12:49.

Jews who were loyal to the Roman government of Herod.
Thus it was natural that their question should concern some Roman rulings—in this case, the tribute, or poll tax, owed to the government which afforded them certain privileges, but which was hated by the Jews because it recognized a ruler other than one of themselves.

So potent was the people's feeling that after Christ's time, Judas of Galilee was able to lead a rebellion against Rome around the rallying cry that it was unlawful to pay tribute to Caesar. So if Christ answered in the affirmative, He would lose the people's sympathy; if He answered in the negative, the authorities had easy pretext to arrest Him.

Christ's answer made it clear that He separated temporal from spiritual authority;
He implied, too, that these people, who used the Roman money and accepted Roman privileges,

Christ, in answering, does not go back to the Decalogue, however, but to Deuteronomy 6:4,5
—the so-called "Shema," a passage so important that it is recited every day by an Orthodox Jew. For the second commandment, Christ goes to Leviticus 19:18. It is plain from his answer that the scribe has been won over to Christ.

Christ's question to His interrogators implies His dual Divine-human nature. The Jewish authorities failed to recognize Christ as the Messiah because he did not assume complete temporal authority, restoring the physical kingdom of David.

Christ then accuses the authorities of three great sins—ambition, cruelty (as regarding helpless widows) and insincerity in their religion.

He praises the poor widow for the chief virtue which the mighty authorities lack; her religious sincerity governed her whole life.

Girl Off on Hunger Strike
After Romance Broken Up?

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Is Frances Jean Carr an emotionally disturbed girl who went on a hunger strike when her father and aunt made her break off a romance with a former mental patient?

That's the story Francis Carr, 44, the father, and Jeanette Carr,
the aunt, are telling.

It stands in sharp contrast to the story the 18-year-old girl told police, then repeated in a hospital bed interview.

Frances Jean told a sketchy tale of five months when, she says, her father and aunt made her live in a trunk and subsist on bread broken up in coffee.

The elder Carrs countered that Frances Jean refused to eat, bathe or care for herself in any way after they forbade her to see a 40-year-old man she met last spring in a Youngstown mental institution. They said she has lived for the last few months in their basement recreation room.

Frederick W. Adams, a Toccoa, Ga., teacher fired for assigning the novel "A Bell for Adano" to his eighth-grade class, has won a court order for a new hearing before the school board.

The board contended the novel contained language which made it unsuitable reading material for children.

Gov. William A. Egan, noting the overflight March 14 of southwest Alaska by two Soviet reconnaissance planes and citing "woeful inadequacy" of Alaska's bases and more fighter planes for his state.

The Far North, Egan said in Juneau, has a far more serious and continuing danger than is posed by Cuba.

President Sukarno of Indonesia has been treated successfully for the second time by a Communist Chinese medical team, according to Antara news agency in Jakarta.

The agency did not disclose Sukarno's ailment.

Last year, Antara said, Communist Chinese doctors treated Su-karno for a kidney ailment.

10-Inch Splinter
Pulled from Youth

MANKATO, Minn. (AP)—Steve
Brown, 19, a freshman at Mankato State College, had stomach cramps for six weeks after a toboggan accident, but not until last weekend did he learn the cause.

He had been to the doctor several times without relief. Last weekend, he went again.

The doctor probed a wound in his bottomside and found a bit of wood. He pulled, and pulled some more, and finally retrieved a 10-
inch splinter.

The doctor said the piece of wood from the toboggan slipped through a notch in the pelvis and worked into the youth's back without touching any vital organs.

"Perhaps I'll frame it," said Brown, marveling at the size of the splinter.

Coal Makes Music

IONE, Calif. (AP)—A coal mine here produces a special grade of coal used to manufacture montan wax for making phonograph needles.

The girl told deputies she escaped from an unheated shed back of the Carr house on March 15. She weighed only 78 pounds at the time, had frostbitten toes and rope marks on her wrists and waist.

Frances Jean said her punishment began last October "because my aunt didn't like the way
I did housework."

"First they made me stay in the basement and part of the time I had to lie in a box they had for their horses' saddles," she said. "In January they put me out in the shed and I had to stay in the box what seemed like almost all the time. They would let me out to feed me twice a day on coffee bread. That's bread broken up in coffee. There was straw in the trunk and I had my coat on so I didn't get too cold."

The girl said her aunt kicked her in the face and knocked out her front teeth. She said her father sometimes whipped her with a stick and in three occasions they tied her and forced her under a shower.

"I was scared at first," she said, "but then I got used to being by myself and I sort of liked it. I'd think about the past or about what kind of day it must be outside. Christmas Day I spent the whole day by myself in the box. They didn't bring me anything to eat. The next day my aunt said she had the Life of Riley because she didn't have to look at Me Christmas Day."

Frances Jean's 21-year-old sister, Mrs. Donna Ansley, said she wants the girl to live with her after she recovers.

"I hadn't seen her since last May because my father told me not to come around the house," Mrs. Ansley said. "We had no idea what was going on. I can't imagine my father acting like that. He never raised a hand against us when we were little.
I just thank God we found out about Franny in time."

The father, an unemployed steelworker, told newsmen "we're being crucified. We did all we could to help Franny."

The aunt told of the girl's becoming rebellious after quitting school. "She was cruel to our children. She took to breaking anything she thought we especially cherished. Finally we took her to Youngstown for psychiatric help. We visited her and wrote to her constantly."

Mrs. Carr displayed letters Frances Jean had written from the hospital calling her aunt
"mom" and expressing love for the family.

The Carrs said they spent $1,- 400 on treatment for the girl.
"When she came home she told me she was in love," Mrs. Carr said. "Then one day this man who was about 40 showed up. They had met in the hospital. I told him to stay away from Franny and then she started acting up."

Mrs. Carr showed a love letter written to Frances Jean by the man while he was still a mental patient.

Although the girl claimed never having dated, her father said she had been "going with boys since she was nine years old. . . It was a big problem with us."

The family said after Frances Jean refused to eat or care for her needs they moved her out of a room she shared with their 13-year-old daughter and into the recreation room.

"She stayed down there the whole time," her father said.
"We never forced her in any trunk and she was never out in the shed. I admit I hit her sometimes, but it was with a flimsy stick you mix paint with—not any club. We tried constantly to get her to eat and we kept milk and bread and things in the refrigerator down there."

"I admit we had to tie her up and force her under the shower to clean her," Mrs. Carr said.
"She let herself get so filthy we were afraid she would get infected. She had pyorrhea in her gums and those front teeth fell out when she was eating an apple."

Mrs. Carr said she took Frances Jean to Mass on Christmas Day. "Later we gave her two slips, a pair of pajamas and a necklace. We served her Christmas dinner down in the recreation room."

Neighbors have backed up the Carrs' claims.

"I was over here three weeks ago and she was in the kitchen," said Mrs. Corena Bizilo. "Her father gave her a plate of meat, potatoes, green beans, salad and bread and butter. She was mad and she wouldn't use a knife and fork. She ate with her hands. I don't blame them for feeding her downstairs most of the time. I've seen that girl back Jeanette in a corner and try to black her eye."

The father and aunt are free on $1,500 bond after pleading innocent to charges of tormenting and torturing the girl.

Chief Eyes Skirts

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Gen.

women show far too much leg.

"Nowadays, skirts are much 'oo

"How low would you like to see

"Better ask my wife," answered the general, smiling. "But I would say a skirt which came halfway between the knee and ankle would seem modest enough."

Davey Moore In Coma after Ring Knockout

Doctors Say Living
Chances Poor; Title
Lost to Cuban Exile

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former champion Davey Moore was in a coma suffering from "a serious head injury" and his chances of living are poor, a hospital physician said early today after the former champion lost his title to Sugar Ramos in one of three title fights here Thursday night.

Dr. Philip Vogel reported the former featherweight champion was in a deep coma.

"His chances are extremely poor," Dr. Vogel said. He added that Moore had suffered general injury to the mid-brain area and said that Moore's fate probably will be known within the next 12 hours.

No brain operation was contemplated.

Also at the hospital was Moore's wife, Geraldine, who never watches her husband in the ring, but was given permission to see him at the hospital. She wept as she left Moore's room. They reside in Columbus, Ohio.

All three boxing titles up for grabs had new owners today after a pair of spectacular knockouts and a controversial decision in the ballyhooed triple championships fight extravaganza.

A crowd of 26,142 watched as Ramos won the featherweight title in the middle bout by knocking Moore—who was taken by ambulance to a hospital about an hour after the fight. He was unconscious and X-rays were taken.

In the opener at Dodger Stadium, Luis Rodriguez took the welterweight championship away from Emilio Griffith on a decision—unanimous but subject to argument. In the windup, Roberto Cruz wound up and knocked out Batting Torres in the first round and won the vacant junior welterweight title.

The doctor described Moore's injury as a confusion, more serious than a brain concussion.

Boxing officials, including Moore's manager, Willie Ketchum, who had asked the bout be stopped, kept vigil at White Memorial Hospital.

Ramos, who lost the early rounds, smashed Moore down in the 10th round and had him draped over a rope and helpless as the round ended.

In his dressing room, the dethroned 126-pound king said "I'd like to fight him again," then, some time after, was taken by ambulance to the White Memorial Hospital. The 29-year-old Moore was rolled out of his dressing room on a table.

Ramos, who fled from Cuba and now makes Mexico City his home, remained undefeated, winning his 41st fight. The two boxers each weighed 125½ pounds for their blistering battle.

Griffith, ironically, was involved in a fatal title fight almost exactly one year ago. He regained the welterweight crown last March 24 at New York's Madison Square Garden by stopping Benny (Kid) Paret, who died of brain injuries suffered in the bout 10 days later.

Decorations for the evening are being handled by Bob Chapman, Booster vice president, and CHS cheerleaders.

State Exposition Member Talks to Equitation Club

The Ohio State Fair in 1962 had an income of almost one million dollars reported Bennett Junk of New Holland to Pickaway Saddle and Bridle Club during its monthly meeting held at Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum on Wednesday evening.

Junk is a member of the Ohio Expositions Commission which handles the State Fair and supervises the use of the fairgrounds.

He told the club members that thirty people are employed year around at the fairgrounds and rental of its facilities yields an average of approximately $20,000 per month.

Junk, as do the other members of the commission, serves on three committees. His committee assignments are budget and finance, commerce and industry and the committee in charge of all horse activities during the fair.

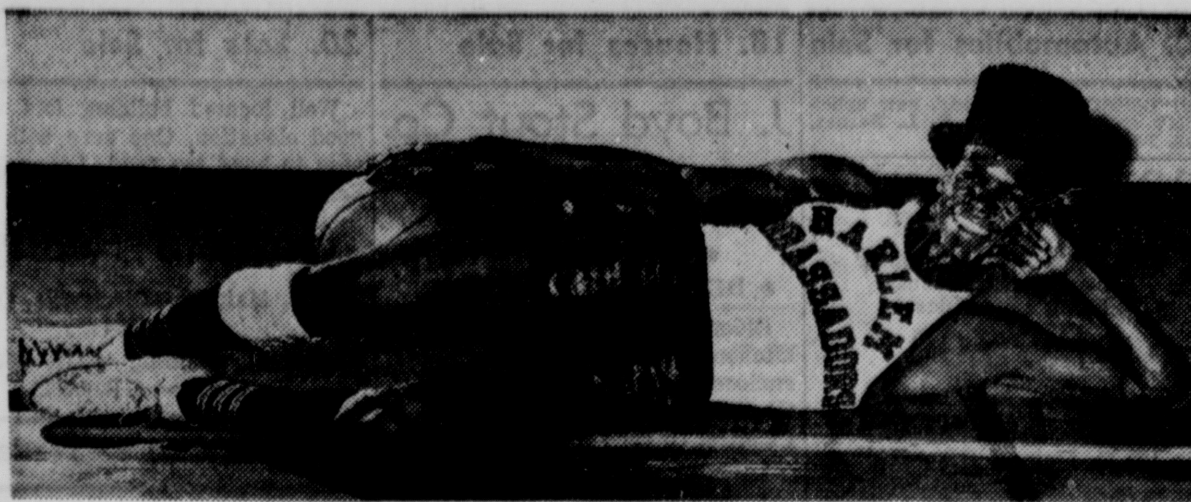

Junk explained that the Expositions Commission is made up of fifteen members with the Director of Agriculture serving as an additional member. Junk in his talk to the Saddle group outlined some long range plans which are being discussed by the Expositions Commission by way of modernizing the fairgrounds.

The business session with president Sterling Poling in charge included two minor changes in the constitution and by-laws and progress reports on the Kiwanis Charity Horse Show scheduled for May 25-26.

The president named Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Vaughan and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoffman to the program committee. The next meeting will be a joint meeting with the 4-H Colt and Equitation Club to which other local saddle horse groups will be invited to see films useful to those who train and ride horses.

Refreshments were served by Billy Rihl and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hoffman.

DRIBBLING WIZARD — Leon Hillard, rated one of the greatest comedians in professional basketball, will appear locally with the Harlem Ambassadors April 2 in a game sponsored by the Pickaway County unit of the American Cancer Society.

Local High School Basketball Coaches Will Play Ambassadors

An amazing showman and basketball expert is Leon Hillard, the dribbling wizard, who appears in the Circleville gymnasium April 2 with the sensational Harlem Ambassadors.

Opposition facing the Ambassadors will be a team composed of local high school basketball coaches. The game is sponsored for the benefit of the American Cancer Fund.

Hillard has been a sensation ever since he played with McKinley High School in Chicago. Spotted by the Harlem Globetrotters, he signed with them after his high-school cage career. He is a native of Arkansas, which has produced many great names in professional sports.

In 10 campaigns with the Trotters, Hillard captivated fans in 5 countries with his amazing dribbling act.

Now it is difficult to determine whether Hillard's fantastic dribbling is a bigger asset than his comical, ball handling or ability to play straight basketball.

Hillard is often guarded by three or four opponents when he starts weaving through defensive set-ups on his dribble act. And the fans love it.

However, if fans come to see Hillard bat the ball around, they leave with the knowledge that he is easily one of the all-time great entertainers in comedy basketball. He is a natural comedian who takes a delight in his job. Even Hillard's teammates are constantly laughing at his antics on the hardwood.

It is in the tight games, where the Ambassadors have to play hard to get a safe lead, that Hillard proves that he is a fine ballplayer. He can knife through opposing defenses like lightning and is an excellent shot.

Hillard is the leading point-maker for the fun-loving Ambassadors, who began their fourth season with the astonishing record of 322 wins and one defeat against top independent and college teams throughout the United States, Canada and Nova Scotia.

Hillard is 5-11 and weighs 155 pounds. He and Moore coach the Ambassadors, who are gaining a reputation for being one of the best crowd-pleasing teams in history.

Harding Defeated By East Tech Unit

Warren G. Harding, coached by former Circleville High School cage mentor Dick Boyd, last night was dumped from the tournament trail, 66-44, by Cleveland East Tech in the championship game of the Cleveland Regionals.

Harding finished the season with a 21-4 record. Boyd guided his team to a district championship by defeating Mansfield St. Peter, 64-62.

East Tech is the first team to win a berth in the state finals competition at St. John Arena.

BG Wins Mid-Am Berth Third Year

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—Nate Thurmond, 6-foot-11 Bowling Green center, has become the fourth player in history to be named for three consecutive years to the All-Mid-American Conference basketball team.

Thurmond, an Akron product who averaged 21.1 points a game for the BeeGees, was among three repeaters from last year on the mythical squad announced today by the league's seven coaches.

Cousy Recalls Early Decision

Honored Cage Star
Could Have Been Thief

BOSTON (AP)—With his boundless energy, young Bob Cousy viewed life from the street of a New York slum and saw two paths.

One was to achievement in sports. The other to the world of stolen hubcaps and broken windows.

The all-time athletic great retiring from the Boston Celtics after 13 years credits his path on the right road to his parents and the fact they moved to a basketball hotbed in the borough of Queens when he was 13.

"Contrary to popular opinion,
I was not born with a basketball in my hands," Cousy says. "In fact, hardly knew what one looked like until we moved to St.
Alban's. From then on, the excellent competition at my school and the ones we played against helped me to sharpen my game."

When Cousy arrived on the Worcester, Mass., campus, the Crusaders had a budding national champion.

"So here was I, the great Cousy, captain of the New York City all-scholastic team the year before, relegated to a buy fighting to stay on the squad," he recalls.

After earning All-America honors at Holy Cross, he was drafted by the Chicago Stags.
That National Basketball Association franchise folded shortly thereafter and the Celtics, who didn't want him, got him by drawing his name from a hat. Bob now discloses he had doubts then that he would even make the team but set out to prove himself all over again.

Thirteen All-Star squads and five NBA championships later, the results of Cousy's efforts need no embellishment.

Former Holy Cross teammate Andy Laska recalls the Cousy of their college days.

"He was so determined and devoted we used to practice in a barn... and when we'd all be up eating supper in the dining hall, he'd still be down in the barn practicing... That's his secret.
He's never satisfied with his game, even after 13 years."

tions as to how he will make out

Racehorses Are Tamed in College Cage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They put up the "whoa" sign this season in racehorse college basketball.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's service bureau, which keeps tabs on such things, reported Thursday that scoring in major college games dropped from a 141 average to 138.4 per game for both teams.

"The figures substantiate the suspicion that coaches across the country deliberately took the racehorse out of basketball," the bureau said. "At least enough of them turned to the control game to result in an unprecedented decrease in the number of field goal attempts."

Field goal attempts were the lowest in 16 years. The colleges averaged only 127.3 shots at the basket compared with 134.5 the year before.

For the fifth time in six seasons, the Midwest led the other sections in point-making, averaging 145.2 points a game for both teams. Largest decrease was in the South where scoring fell off 4.7 points a game.

The only section to show a scoring gain was the Far West. The Rockies had a slight gain—138.9
to 138.0—but the Pacific Coast leaped from 129.4 to 132.6.
